E. V. D. JOHNSON IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Seriously Injured When Machine is Struck By Fast Southern Pacific Limited.

BROTHER OF H. C. JOHNSON

Was Here Short Time Ago, And Had Arrived Home Only Six Days Before the Accident.

H. C. Johnson, of this city, this morning received the particulars of the automobile accident which occurred last Tuesday in which his brother, E. V. D. Johnson, was seriously injured. The machine in which were Mr. Johnson and his chauffeur them for the beautiful floral offerings. was struck by a fast Southern Pacific limited and was totally wrecked. Mr. Johnson was thrown about thirty feet from the car, and as he lay unconscious for some time it was supposed that he was dead.

The accident occurred near Redding at a railroad crossing which is at the mouth of a deep cut in the road. chauffeur was unable to see the ap- afternoon. proaching train on account of the high embankments on either side of the road. The chauffeur claims the engineer failed to give the warning signal as he came near the crossing, the chauffeur ran on the crossing before he saw the train. When he realized that he could not avoid the Farmers in Clark County Find Inaccident, he attempted to veer his machine from the track and succeeded partly in doing this as the locomotive struck only the right forward axle and wheel.

The machine was overturned and was badly wrecked. The chauffeur, who was sitting in the same seat with Mr. Johnson, escaped without serious Surgeons were called to the scene of the accident as soon as possible and an examination of the injured man showed that his shoulder was badly shattered and his forearm was lacerated. He was taken to a hospital at San Francisco, and while his injuries are intensely painful his physicians believe he is not hurt internally and that he will recover.

The crossing is regarded as dangerous by travelers and three years ago a similar accident occurred to an automobile party at the same place, and three of the party were killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Johnson in Seymour only a short time ago, and had been home only six days when he met with his accident. He is the manager the Northern California Power Company.

A RE-ENACTED TRAGEDY.

Story of a Mysterious Happening to an Automobiler.

By F. A. MITCHEL.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Asso-

That year the first snowstorm came early, and it was an infant blizzard It caught me in my automobile making a trip near Edinburgh. I had robes with me, it is true, but not the supply I usually carried for winter weather. The snow fell lightly at first, growing thicker and finally coming with | venge. blinding force, the wind rising and beaping it in drifts.

It was these drifts that balked me. I plowed through them at first, but as they grew deeper I found this method of getting on more difficult, and unfortunately there was no other.

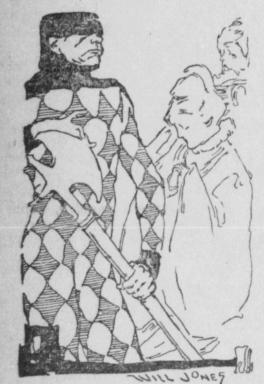

The snow was getting deeper, the cold more intense, and I was becoming drowsy when I saw a light flickering to my left a short distance ahead. Being at the foot of a rise, the ascent of which involved a cut and a drift. I left my machine beside the road that ing vehicles and walked toward the another cavalier. light. striking costumes. My embarrassment was by no means disturbed by the attention I attracted for the plainness of my costume. One would suppose by the way these people stared at me that my ordinary sack coat, vest and trousers were more curious than those worn by themselves. It seemed to me that true politeness would have led them to pass my deficiency without notice just as a person of feeling will refrain from staring at any physical defect such as a birthmark.

I soon found myself dancing with the rest, choosing my partners at random, for, though I was acquainted with none of the ladies, they were all gracious to me. One of them, dressed as Mary, queen of Scots, seemed not averse to having me for a partner, and as she was a very beautiful woman I was not averse to dancing with her. The company had revived old fashioned dances, among others the minuet. I was leading Queen Mary to a position for this dance when she stopped short and turned pale. Following the direction of her eyes, I saw a woman dressed as Queen Elizabeth glancing at her.

"Upon my word," I said to my partner, "you people are carrying out your characters to perfection. That old ed. Jezebel is looking at you with all the malice there was in the virgin queen, and you are trembling as if you were aware of her purpose to murder you.'

"Take me away." she moaned. Wondering at this show of feelingit did not seem to be assumed-I took the lady to a place where a set was forming for the minuet and there was a place vacant. We occupied it. The music started up, and we began to dance. What surprised me was that I, who had no knowledge of the dance, was able to get through the figures without making any serious mistakes. We had just finished when my partner gave a shriek and fell swooning in from her to some one else and, glaneblack costume, masked, bearing an ax this very house.

on his shoulder, just disappearing through a door into another room.

"This is enacting characters with a vengeance," I said to myself. "Not only does Mary tremble at the sight of Elizabeth, but she faints at the sight of the executioner." I was obliged to carry her to a lounge, where I placed her, fanning her until she came back to consciousness. I was surprised that none of the ladies came forward to assist her. Looking about for some of them, I saw them all dancing attendance on the old painted hag, with her enormous ruffled collar and bedizened with jewels. She cast a glance occasionally toward me and my charge, and a more malignant scowl I never observed on the face of any human being. It seemed intended to warn those fawning upon her that the slightest sympathy with the Scottish queen would be visited with a frightful re-

Mary opened her eyes and, seeing me looking down at her with intense solicitude, gave me a responsive glance that went straight to my heart. I could not but contrast her beauty-she was the very image of the portraits I had seen of her prototype-with that of the thin faced, skinny, wrinkled old woman who was personating Elizabeth. When Mary had sufficiently recovered to speak she begged me to go for wine, that she might be strengthened by it. I told her that I would do so if she would promise that my place it might not be in the way of pass- beside her should not be filled with

These scenes were becoming so realistic as to be positively painful. I almost wished myself back in my automobile, facing the driving storm. But the worst was yet to come. We were all dancing a wild figure when suddenly the stroke of a bell brought every one to a standstill. It was followed by others. Then from out one of the rear rooms came a little procession, at the head of which walked Mary. For the first time glancing toward the other end of the room, I saw a block similar to the one shown today in the Tower of London on which state prisoners were beheaded, and I shuddered at the executioner standing beside it, leaning on the handle of his

"For heaven's sake." I groaned. "they're not going to enact that frightful scene. I hope! This is altogether too realistic. If I recommend any such representation for a masquerade I'll choose a more pleasing one."

As I glanced about me and saw seriousness depicted on every face, some of Queen Mary's attendants weeping, the queen herself pale as death, Mary advanced to the block and divested herself of whatever of her clothing would Michigan Central freight train struck interfere with the death stroke. Then she turned her eyes full upon me with one last beseeching look. I started forward to put a stop to this frightful impersonation, but was seized by two men standing behind me and held in a firm grip. Mary, seeing my intention and its thwarting, gave me a last look of mingled gratitude and despair. Then she knelt before the block, the executioner swung the ax aloft, it descended, and amid a spurting of blood the head of the victim rolled to the floor. I fainted. When I came to my senses several people in ordinary costume were standing about me, looking very anxious. "Where the deuce am I?" I exclaim-

"Luckily not frozen," was the reply. They told me that I had been found asleep in my automobile, had been carried to the house in which I was and revived with the greatest difficulty.

Now, I am not going to suggest that there was anything remarkable in one's seeing the sights I did when unconscious. Nevertheless there is a cu rious coincidence connected with the matter. I learned that the house to which I was carried and where I witnessed the tragedy was several hundred years old and had once been oc cupied by Mary, queen of Scots. Tra dition gives more than this. It says that Mary and Elizabeth once met my arms. I saw the guests looking there at a ball. But of this there is spent the night away from home with no historical record. His flight, despite its suddenness, was probably long contemplated. It is well known that since he made over his property to his wife five years ago, there have been constant disagreements with his family in consequence of their more worldly views of life and the management of the estate. He was intensely grieved because of his inability to persuade them to place the peasants on the estate in equally comfortable circumstances as themselves. His refusal to accept the Nobel prize that was offered to him and a large offer for the publishing rights of his works caused further friction. There was, however, no suggestion of a quarrel. Count Tolstoy was simply unable longer to endure the comfortable surroundings of his family and home and embraced an ascetic regime.

Poisoning Is Suspected.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 14.—Physicians have been instructed to perform an autopsy upon the bodies of the two weak-minded brothers, Edward and Charles Kunkle, aged forty-two and forty-nine, who are suspected of having been poisoned. The brothers were farmhands and lived with their seventy-year-old father, who manifested so much indifference when the bodies were found that suspicion was aroused. BUILDING OF GOOD ROADS

Suggestions For the Treatment of Rural Highways.

NO PATCHWORK WHATSOEVER

The Work to Be Done In Sections-A Mile Should Be Carefully Finished In Its Entirety - How the Roadway Ought to Be Cared For.

How good roads should be made and how they should be cared for is tersely described in the lowa Homestead by an enthusiast, who says:

in the first place, there should be no patchwork roadmaking having for its object only to make one particular spot passable. Road work should be done in sections. For instance, a mile of road should be taken and completed in its entirety. Every inch of it should be made a good and safe road. I ven ture the assertion that not more than one mile of road in every ten is safe or free from some dangerous trap to cause trouble to careless drivers or those not given to close observation of the roadways. They should be made so that a child might safely drive over

Beginning, I would establish a rearemain when the work is finished. I would make over the entire width of the road from fence to fence. I would make the actual roadway of usual width, with only rise enough in the center to shed rain. From the gutter count's favorite sister has long been at the side of this roadway I would make a smooth and even grade to the fence line. Then I would compel the property owners along the road to keep the roadside well set in grass and to mow and care for it just as they do their meadows. No deep, unsightly and dangerous gullies would be permitted, and the man who scraped a lot of grass, weeds, clods and trash into the center of the road should at once be condemned to penal servitude for life. Capital punishment would be too good for the one who scoured his plow in the road.

The road worker who plowed up a stretch of road late in the fall and left it to mellow up until spring should be banished to roadless Siberia. A plow has no place in any road that has once been properly made. The care of a road made according to my plan would be only that of going over it occasionally with a drag. The occasion for the use of the drag, however, should be from the viewpoint of the need of the road and not the convenience of the operator of the drag. No man would be permitted to drive a drag over a road unless he were a licensed graduate of a roadmaking school. A road drag is a dangerous thing (for the road) in the hands of a man who does not have sense enough

I would build a complete and effective drainage system to take care of the water that finds its way to the road-not a guesswork one, but one planned by a drainage engineer who knew how.

I would make culverts and bridges Senator Henry C. Lodge is conduct- the width of the road. No small culverts should be built. They invariably fill up and remain a damage. A The Kentncky State Suffrage con- good, big concrete bridge is the safest vention is in session this week at and cheapest that can be made.

Flat Roads Versus Convex.

sonable grade so that no steep hills Both Sides Are Concentrating Their Forces.

Richmond, Ind., Nov. 14. - Violence was again resorted to in the strike of molders at the Robinson Machine works, when Charles Border, non-union employe, was waylaid and stoned. He escaped with slight injuries and fired two times at his assailants. There is little inclination to place any faith in a report that dynamite may be used to damage the plant of the Robinson company, but great care is being taken to keep strangers out of the plant. Several cases of assault and battery, the result of the strike, that were to have come up in the city court, have been postponed. The strikers say they will keep up their tactics for a year and the company is determined to run an open shop at whatever cost.

A crisis is nearing in the strike situation, it is stated by both union and non-union laborers. Both sides are making charges, the nonunion men asserting that the strikers are continuing their insults and that the insolence is increasing, and the union men saying that the nonunion molders are robbing them of legitimate wages and work and that they are decreasing wages in the city by their stand in the matter. Every day attempts are being made by strangers to either get work in the foundry at Robinson's Why take chances. plant or to force entrance by other means. These men are believed to be

CATARRH A SYSTEMIC BLOOD DISEASE

Catarrh is not merely an affection of the mucous membranes; it is a deep-seated blood disease in which the entire circulation and greater part of the system are involved. It is more commonly manifested in the head, nose and throat, because of the sensitive nature of these membranes, and also because they are more easily reached by irritating influences from the outside. The symptoms of Catarrh, such as a tight feeling in the head, nose stopped up, throat clogged and dry, hacking cough, etc., show that the tiny blood vessels of the mucous membranes are badly congested and inflamed from the impurities in the circulation. To cure Catarrh permanently the blood must be purified and the system cleansed of all unhealthy matter. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose. It attacks the blood. Then the inflamed membranes begin to heal, the head is cleared, breathing becomes natural and easy, the throat is no longer clogged, and every unpleasant symptom of the disease disappears. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and for this reason is the most certain cure for Catarrh. Book on Catarrh and medical advice

SHOES

We handle standard lines of shoes made by manufactures who by years of constant effort to makegood shoes, have established a reputatioin that would not permit them to cheapen their product by slipping in shody here and there. Shoddy shoes often appear as good as solid shoes. The difference between a solid insole and counter and a shoddy insole and counter may not be over twenty-five cents, yet the difference in wear of the shoe would probably amount to one dollar.

A FASHION CHAT ON PRACTICAL FROCKS

Furnished by Pictorial Review 222 West 39th Street, New York City

A dress that can be worn on the street early in the fall without a wrap and later on with a separate coat. has a great deal to commend it. A dress of this type is on the tailored order as to seams and plaits, and should not have much trimming, though braiding on the dress itself or braided bands are permissible.

Not only are serge, broadcloth, vicuna and similar woolen fabrics used for them but those that are a bit dressy are made of heavy silk, serge, wool-back satin

Another practical frock is the foulard or voile made up for a house dress. It can be worn at small informal afternoon affairs, the matinee and teas, as a serviceable long coat will cover it nicely, while in the street or conveyance. The beauty of the new silks indicate that they will have greater vogue than ever this fall. Satin liberty, messaline, satin crepe and crepe de chine are foremost because of their substantial quality and the artistic effects that are wrought by the'r supple texture. Satin for several months has been advancing to a leading place in fashion, and with the coming of cool weather it is "doubly prominent. It is used for dresses and in combination with veiling fabrics and Persian silks.

Fancy gauzes printed in colored figures, Persian silk, brocades and pompadour are used to trim the plain satin and are combined with veiling fabrics. Dark blue and black are favorite costume colors not only for coat suits but for gowns. Satin, diagonal silk and fine worsted weaves are stylish.

tate, stock and bonds.

An excellent type of a tailored street dress for early fall is shown on the right in blue French serge. It is made from PICTORIAL REVIEW PAT-TERNS Nos. 35.. and 3572. It shows refinement and good style both in material and in design. The waist closes at the left side and the pattern is perforated so that a low round neck can be made when desired. The skirt consists of six gores. The costume may be made in silk cashmere, English worsted, tussah royal, shantung and silk serge. The waist patterns are in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure and the medium size requires 2% yards of material 36 inches wide. The skirt patterns are in sizes 22, 34, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure and the medium size requires 44 yards of material 36 inches wide.

The overdress is a popular style feature in frocks of every kind from simple lawn to handsome silks. A good design for one is shown in the costume which unites overdress No. 3520 and skirt No. 3506. It is of white and almord green foulard, the overdress being trimmed with a border of large green dots. There is a great deal of liberty shown in such things, a piping of black satin or Persian silk often being added to give a smart contrast. The Persian touch is given to dark colors like navy blue, black or raisin. It is very dressy to have the overdress of chiffon or marquisette to wear over a foulard skirt which it matches in color. The three-quarter length net sleeves are inserted in the lining to which the square yoke is also faced. The closing is at the left side in the front. The box-plaited skirt is in seven gores, attached to a pointed yoke. Overdress patterns are in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure, and the medium size requires 41/4 yards of 36 inch material. Skirt patterns are in sizes 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure, and size 26 requires 71% yards of 36 inch

The price of these patterns, including cutting and construction guides is 15 cents each number.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1910.

A few days before the election the Mayor announced that he had asked the soft drink parlors to close their places of business on election day. This course was adopted, it is said, in order to show that if intoxicants were sold they did not come from these places. On election day, however, it was noticeable that few drunken men were seen on the streets, while since that time the appearance of intoxicated men has been very frequent. What conclusion is the publie to draw from this?

Indianapolis, Nov. 14.—The Indiana Forestry association, of which former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks is president, has issued an address to the people of Indiana in which it is declared that "we owe it to ourselves. our children and our state to inaugurate a system of education with regard to our trees and our forests; and adopt measures which shall conserve what we have so far as may be done consistently with our commercial needs; and take steps toward growing trees wherever it can be done to advantage. This is neither the concern nor the work of the few: it is a matter of vital interest to every citizen of the state and should enlist the earnest co-operation of the many

"Every new tree added to our timber supply, every one saved from ruthless destruction, will be a blessing to the future, a source of health and joy to our people and wealth to the state -to serve which should be a part of the religion of us all. We should no longer play the part of the spendthrift -utterly heedless of tomorrow.

"We regard it of prime importance that the young men and young women of the state should be educated in the subject of forestry, and to that end we hope to have the generous cooperation of schools, colleges and universities. We appeal to all publicspirited citizens for their co-operation. The measure of our success will depend upon them. Every portion of the state should be fully represented in the association. We wish to reach every neighborhood. Each member will be kept advised of the progress of the work of the association.

"This is essentially a matter of state concern-yet it is in the best sense of national moment; for as we conserve the interests of Indiana, we shall contribute to the strength of the entire country."

Anyone in good standing and in accord with its object may join the association by signing and forwarding to George B. Lockwood, the secretary, at Indianapolis, a formal application for membership, accompanying the same with one dollar.

VICTIM OF THUGS

Body of Michigan Labor Leader Found in Marsh Near Warsaw.

Salem, Ind., Nov. 14.-Residents of Canton, a small village four miles east of Salem, were shocked by finding a young baby and a fox terrier lying on the steps of the Canton Methodist Rexall "93" Haair Tonic is as church. The dog was tied to the child, pleasant to use as clear spring water. and when found both were nestled together. The child was still alive but unconscious, and it is the belief of all that the heat from the dog's body saved the child's life. The child was taken to the home of one of the residents of Canton and is there being cared for. Sheriff Lewis C. Smith is conducting an investigation.

CHILDREN'S STYLES.

Reavy Cluny Lace on Hats Is Smart and Pretty.

Following the lines of the fashions for their mothers and older sisters. the clothes for the little folks shown in Paris have new and pretty applications of bands on the short skirts of both dresses and coats, heightened waist lines and a tendency to greater simplicity in trimming.

Probably one of the newest features of fashion for the young people is the use of heavy cluny lace on the hats. coats and dresses. It is a charming lace combined with heavy or sheer quality linens for dresses for all the year around wear and will take the place of embroidery in trimming silk

As a garniture for children's hats there is nothing quite so appropriate as cluny or fillet lace, which belongs to the same family of laces. It has a heavy, substantial look and yet is light in weight and young looking. Often a piece of cluny edging or insertion forms the entire brim of an adorable poke bonnet, while the crown is a huge stiff appearing baker's shape in

It is a new and pretty idea to use clusters of these tiny roses in scatterings over the upper brim of a child's hat, or one will be found pressed closely to the underbrim at the side to give a gay bit of color to the face.

To be sure, bows are still used on the hats. The newest ones for satin and velvet hats are made of white suede kid, which are also used much for older folks' hats this year. This, too, is an economical idea, as one can send the hat to the cleaner's or freshen it at home with benzine, whereas white silk and satin ribbons would have to be discarded as soon as soilapolis is visiting relatives and friends ed. Black satin and velvet are having an unusual vogue for children's coats as well as hats, and it is delightfully old fashioned and quaint looking and has a tendency to add to their youth and babyishness rather than age them, as one would be inclined to think about these materials. A charming little coat of black velvet was made with the body portion and coat in one piece and seamed at the underarm and sleeves. A Woman Introduced Starch. In 1564 a woman introduced starch into England. She was a Mrs. Dingham, a Dutchwoman, wife of a coachman in the service of the queen.

The England of her day blossomed into linen ruffs, enormous, snowy, until low prices. the tight little island looked like one huge snowdrift. These ruffs were a foot wide and stood straight out, starched stiff as a board, on men and women alike. They were got up with a "poking stick" until they were a marvel to behold and propped up with a framework of wire underneath.

All the women of the kingdom were driven to the starch bowl, and they used starch in all the colors of the rainbow. "A certain kind of liquid matter which they call starch, wherein the devil hath willed them to die their ruff," is the way one crabbed old chronicler puts it.-New Idea Woman's Magazine.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 14.—Governor Campbell has authorized the ctatement that there has been no rioting or mistreatment of Mexicans at any point on the Texas side of the Rio Grande border as a result of the burning of Antonio Rodriguez at Rock Springs. The feeling between the Americans and Mexicans all over Texas is cordial and no anticipation of trouble between the two nationalities is feared. Mr. Campbell says he is doing all in his power to bring about posed the mob that lynched Rodriguez. The fact that the scene of the crime is fifty miles from the nearest railroad makes it a hard problem to get the machinery of justice to moving. STATE CONTROL OF ROADS.

Why a Kansas County's Surveyor Favors a Uniform System.

The state control of roads in order to bring about uniformity and eliminate the offices that have to do with road building is advocated by J. M. Lindsay, county surveyor of Wyandotte county, Kan. Mr. Lindsay would abolish the office of county engineer and have a resident state engineer appointed either by the state highway engineer or a good roads commission. As a continuation of the plan the township road overseer would be under the control of the resident engipeer, and the result, Mr. Lindsay says, would be a uniformity of roads

"Suppose," Mr. Lindsay said, "that the county commissioners of one county should erect a concrete bridge and Mexican Capital Ought to Be Pretty on the same road in the next county a cheap 'tin' affair is erected. In a few years the cheap bridge may wear out. and a heavily loaded wagon or a thrashing machine would be compelled to go around it. Under state conor less uniform. Not that all bridges would necessarily be concrete, but the capacity and condition of every bridge in the state would be known by every resident engineer. DOUBLED THEIR VOTE

Indiana Socialists Make Fine Showing in Recent Election.

Indianapolis, Nov. 12.—The doubling of the Socialist vote in many of the cities of the state has greatly encouraged the leaders of that party, and Eugene V. Debs predicts that there will be greater growth at the next election. In Terre Haute the Socialists cast more than 1,000 votes on Tuesday; in Anderson nearly 2,000, and in other cities correspondingly large votes, the total showing an increase of nearly 60 per cent. Debs says the result in the country Tuesday, the election of a congressman in Wisconsin, and the near election of five others, together with the election of tures, "means the dawn of a new era in American politics." Fatal "Slugging" In a Football Match.

CORONER ISSUES A WARRANT

In a Game at Wheeling Between Bethany College and University of West Virginia, Captain of Latter Team Was Kiled and a Player for Other Side Is Charged With Intentionally Delivering Blow That Proved Fatal.

Wheeling, W. Va., Nov. 14.-Charging him with the willful murder of Rudolph Munk, left halfback and captain of the West Virginia university team. Coroner Rogers has issued a warrant for Thomas McCoy, alias Gardner, left end of the Bethany college team. The warrant was issued because of the sworn statement made to Coroner Rogers by Homer N. Young of Pittsburg, a former Michigan university player, who was the official referee of the game, and who said that Munk was running down the field in advance of the man with the ball, when he was met by Gardner, who ran toward Munk while both were running down the field. Gardner, said the witness, struck Munk on the back of the head with his fist.

"Munk fell," continued the witness, "and Gardner kind of fell over him. Gardner got on his feet for an instant, gazed at Munk and started to him out of the game. He made no reply and no protest whatever. Munk was unconscious. Evidently, to me, the blow which felled Munk was inten-

McCoy is the real name of the player who is charged with striking Munk, but in this game he was playing under the name of Gardner. After he had been ordered from the field he passed the bleachers where several hundred West Virginia rooters were standing. Cries of "dirty player" and "tough" came from all sides. McCoy said, "Well, he was slugging me all through the game."

Dr. Staats rushed to the side of the player and, placing him in an auto, rushed him to the city hospital. Several doctors worked over him, but all to no avail. He died a few hours later without having regained con-

Captain Henley of Bethany, when asked concerning the play, said: is the concensus of opinion among the Bethany players that Munk hit McCoy and McCoy hit him back. None of the Bethany players saw the play, nor do I think the officials did, as all were watching the man with the ball.' Coach Townsend of Bethany said: "Slugging had been going on all through the game, and just prior to the accident I had asked the officials to have it stopped, but they paid no attention." An autopsy held over the body of Munk revealed the cause of his death. It was a blood clot on the brain, due to a blow on the head.

AFTER GOMPERS' SCALP

Victor L. Berger Has Renewed Fight Against Labor Chief.

Milwaukee, Nov. 14.-Victor L. Berger, Milwaukee's Socialist congressman, has gone to St. Louis to attend the national convention of the American Federation of Labor and will renew his efforts to depose Samuel Gompers from the presidency of that organization. Berger has every year for some time past made this effort, speaking in behalf of the Socialistic element in the federation against the manner in which Gompers refused to commit the federation to the Socialistic movement. A year ago Berger charged that Goripers was a traitor urged labor to seek its rights through one or the other of the old parties, and had told the union men that their work was to get candidates friendly to labor in the ranks of the old parties, but not to make themselves an independent party or to espouse Socialism.

Mr. Berger says he does not expect to depose Gompers this year, but that the Socialist sentiment in the federation is growing so rapidly that Gompers cannot hold out against Socialism much longer.

HANDY ROAD TOOL.

Combination Device For Whipping Dirt Highways Into Shape.

We recently visited a model farm, and one of the most attractive features about it was the condition in which the roads, both on the farm and the adjacent highway, were kept by use of the split log drag. This is a matter of real economy, as well as of good looks. A visit to another farm showed a modified device which we had never seen used elsewhere, and which is the invention of the owner. says a writer in the Kansas Farmer. It is so effective that a drawing of it is shown herewith. It is really a combination of harrow and split log drag. The harrow teeth are attached in such a manner that they can be let down of the finished article. and the implement used as a harrow of the drag it forms an excellent clod crusher, and its weight is such that it can be nicely handled with an ordinary farm team. There are certain roads which require a good deal of whipping into shape before they become good walk off the field. For this foul I put dirt roads. This work can be done by a split log drag if time is taken for it. It can be done more readily by the combination implement herewith illustrated, as will be shown on a trial.

As this implement has a value in the field that is equaled by that on the road, it may be considered a distinct improvement over both the ordinary split log drag and the harrow. The drawing is sufficiently plain to show the method of construction, and the cost for the iron attachments for holding the teeth need not be great. The teeth, of course, can be set in a wooden This implement has been used on the farm where it was made for a number of years and has been found equal- red satin ribbon flowers with tiny

KEEP OUT OF RUTS.

In That Way Motorists Will Make Highways Better.

Few problems with which the motorist has to cope have proved more refractory than that of improving the roads. It is so unwieldly a situation to handle and its ramifications extend into such a multitude of tangles in the field of legislation and of public sentiment that progress has now been slow indeed. None the less it is possible for each automobile owner here and now to give practical assistance to the movement if he only will.

Those who have carefully studied the road maintenance problem find that one of their chief difficulties arises from the fact that traffic inevitably finds its way into a pair of ruts. Each succeeding vehicle digs deeper, and so the operation continues until there is only one part of the road which can be traveled with comfort.

Suppose that each vehicle should seek a new path. What would be the result? A smooth, firmly packed surface, in practically as good condition as if a steam roller were in constant operation. Now is the time when a policy of avoiding the ruts can best be made effective.

The public is ready to suffer inconveniences for the sake of better roads, but it should not have to suffer them for so long a Danger In Unexpected Road Funds. A Florida good roads enthusiast who appears to favor the actual construction of roads rather than paper or vocal road building puts it as follows: "We beg to assure the bond trustees, enwrapped and enveloped and accompanied by our most distinguished consideration, that good roads bonds are vain and worthless until they are cashed and the cash expended for the most estimable and excellent purpose originally intended. A million dollar road fund unexpended is a most worthless and dangerous possession."

THE RACE FOR SPEAKERSHIP

Already There Are Seven Ambitious Members in the Field For Speaker of the Hoosier House of Representatives and the Lists Are Not Yet Closed-Other Positions Also Anxiously Sought.

Indianapolis, Nov. 12.—Adolph Sei densticker, representative from Marion county, has announced himself as a candidate for speaker of the house at the next session of the legislature. This gives Marion county two candidates for the speakership, W. W. Spencer having already made his announcement. Seidensticker was a member of the last legislature. At the election last Tuesday he received the largest vote of any candidate on the legisla-

It is reported from Evansville that Albert J. Venneman, who was elected joint representative from Vanderburg, Gibson and Knox counties, also will be a candidate for speaker. The other candidates besides those mentioned above are Joseph M. Cravens of Madison, Harry G. Strickland of Greenfield, Michael C. Thornton of New Albany, and John B. Faulkner of Michigan

Myron W. King, secretary of the Democratic state committee, says the report that he is a candidate for appointment as secretary of the senate at the next session of the legislature is untrue.

"I am not a candidate and shall not be a candidate," he said. "I do not want the place."

The only other name mentioned in connection with the position of secretary of the senate is that of Dale J. Crittenberger of Anderson. While no official announcement has been made of his candidacy, his name was brought Gift For the Bride.

A dainty gift for a bride is one or a set of handkerchiefs with an edging of crochet. With ordinary spool cotizer of the suffrage movement, and ton, No. 60, and a very fine needle, crochet a pattern for a square of a trifle over two inches. Each square must be made separately. Five squares on each side are used for the border. They are joined together with an over and over stitch with a sewing needle. and the squares are then whipped on to a small fine hemstitched linen handkerchief. Handkerchiefs thus bordered are not only pretty, but durable,

FAVOR CHANGES IN SEVERAL LAWS

Samuel B. Wells, Representative-Elect. Wants Local Accountants Employed.

CANDIDATE FOR SPEAKERSHIP

Objects to Indeterminate Sentence Law and Would Revise Fish and Game Statutes.

Samuel B. Wells, who was elected as Joint Representative from Scott and Jennings counties, is already advocating several changes in the present state laws and declares that he will defend them in the coming session of the legislature. Besides being a representative and politican, Mr. Wells is editor of the Scottsburg Journal and when he is not writing editorials he finds time to pracice law in the Scott circuit court.

Mr. Wells has always objected to the present public accounting law and will use his influence in making several revisions in that law. He believes that local accountants should be employed instead of state accountants and thinks this is the only way a fair investigation can be made. He believes that the salaries of the accountants are entirely too high and that their fees should be in proportion to the salaries of the other public servants in the county where the accounting is being done.

This would cut the salary of the field accountanss one half, as the average salary of the county officials of the state is about $1,800 to $2,000 per year. Wells thinks that during the investigation of an official's records the official should have a chance to explain matters that may at first appear somewhat hazy to the examiners before being charged with being guilty of misuse of the public

For several years Wells has been fighting tthe indeterminate sentence law. He will be in favor of a revision of this law to give the jury the thinks that the present system is very unjust aand that under it there are many times when men convicted of a tirely too soon to do justice to society and the laws of the country. Of course there are instances where the reverse has been the case.
